RISKS

The Share Class is assigned to this risk category because of price variations resulting from its currency and the nature of the Sub-Fund's investments and strategy. The above rating is based on the historic volatility of the Share Class and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Share Class. The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time. The lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment.

Fixed income investments entail interest rate risk, the risk of issuer default, issuer credit risk, and price volatility risk. Sub-Funds investing in bonds can lose their value as interest rates rise and an investor can lose principal. Sub-Fund share prices and returns will fluctuate with market conditions, currencies, and the economic and political climates where the investments are made. Emerging markets securities carry special risks, such as less developed or less efficient trading markets, a lack of company information, and differing auditing and legal standards. The securities markets of emerging markets countries can be extremely volatile. The Sub-Fund's investments denominated in foreign currencies will decline in value if the foreign currency declines in value relative to the U.S. dollar. All investing involves risk including the potential loss of principal. Market volatility may significantly impact the value of your investments. Recent tariff announcements may add to this volatility, creating additional economic uncertainty and potentially affecting the value of certain investments. Tariffs can impact various sectors differently, leading to changes in market dynamics and investment performance.
