Fund commentary

The Russell Investments Balanced Fund outperformed the benchmark in February. The Fund's 70% allocation to growth assets such as Australian and global equities and listed property tends to drive returns.

The Fund's equity portfolio was mixed. In terms of domestic equities, both the Russell Investments Australian Shares Core Fund and the Russell Investments Australian Opportunities Fund (RAOF) delivered positive absolute and excess returns over the period. The Core Fund benefited from stock selection within the industrials space, while RAOF's outperformance was driven by stock selection amongst materials and property trusts. The Russell Investments Australian Shares Index Fund tracked the broader equity market higher. Within our global equity portfolio, the Russell Investments Tax Effective Global Shares Fund underperformed its benchmark in February; though it did record strong absolute returns for the month. The Russell Investments Multi-Asset Factor Exposure Fund also underperformed, driven in part by an overweight to the value factor. Within our traditional fixed income portfolio, the Russell Investments Australian Bond Fund performed in line with its benchmark over the period; though absolute returns were slightly negative. In contrast, the Russell Investments International Bond Fund – $A Hedged underperformed its benchmark, driven by interest rate and active currency positioning, including a short Japanese yen exposure. In terms of our extended fixed income exposure, Metrics Credit outperformed cash and traditional fixed income assets over the period, with Australian loans continuing to generate income-like returns. The Russell Investments Australian Floating Rate Fund also performed well. More broadly, the Fund benefited from its exposure to domestic listed property, while a weaker Australian dollar (relative to the US dollar) boosted the returns of the Fund's assets denominated in foreign currency.
