Manulife Emerging Markets Debt Fund

Class X GBP Accumulating IE00BY04Q72 A sub-fund of Manulife Investment Management II ICAV (“the ICAV”)

This document provides you with key investor information about this Fund. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risks of investing in this Fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Objectives and Investment Policy

Investment Objective: The Fund seeks to provide total return over the long-term. The Fund employs an actively managed investment strategy. The Fund uses the JP Morgan EMBI Global Index as a benchmark for performance comparison purposes and does not track the performance of the benchmark.

Investment Policies: The Fund primarily invests in fixed and floating interest rate Debt Securities of issuers located in, or economically tied to, emerging market countries. The Debt Securities may be of investment or below investment grade credit rating.

In seeking to achieve its objective, the Fund will use FDIs to take long positions (benefitting the Fund when the security rises in value) and short positions (using FDIs to benefit the Fund when the security falls in value). The Fund may also use FDI for hedging or efficient portfolio management and stock lending contracts for efficient portfolio management. The use of FDIs may introduce leverage into the Fund.

The Fund may also invest in: Debt Securities of issuers in developed countries (some US securities are not registered for retail sale with the US authorities and can only be traded between qualified institutions or foreign institutions), equity and equity related securities; units of other UCITS and exchange traded funds (up to 10% of Net Asset Value); and other types of debt such as bank loans and mortgage-related securities.

The sub-investment manager seeks securities which offer attractive risk and return profiles to help achieve the investment objective.

The Fund pursues an actively managed investment strategy and may deviate significantly from the benchmark from time to time. While this deviation may result in performance that is meaningfully different than that of the JP Morgan EMBI Global Index, the Fund’s investment strategy will tend to invest in a universe of securities that are similar to that of the constituents of the benchmark.

Definitions:

Debt Securities: corporate or government securities representing a debt obligation. These may include but are not limited to bonds (e.g. fixed income bonds, zero interest rate bonds, bonds where interest rate and principal are sold separately), notes and debentures, and securities convertible at the option of the Fund in to equity (“Convertibles”), including up to 10% of Net Asset Value in contingent convertible securities (“CoCos”).

FDIs: a contract between two or more parties whose value depends on the rise and fall of the underlying asset.

Distribution Policy: This class is an accumulating class. All earnings, dividends and other distributions of whatever kind will be accumulated and reinvested pursuant to the investment objectives and policies of the Fund.

Fund Currency: The base currency of the Fund is USD.

Share Class Currency: The currency of this class is GBP. This is an unhedged share class.

Dealing Frequency: You may buy and sell shares on any day on which Euronext Dublin and New York Stock Exchange are open for regular business. This Fund is intended as a long-term investment, and therefore may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within the short to medium term.

Risk and Reward Profile

This indicator is calculated in line with EU regulations based on historical data for the Fund and is not a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time. This indicator is a measure of the share class price movement (volatility) over time. The lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment. The Fund is exposed to additional risks not captured by this indicator including, without limitation:

CoCos Risk: CoCos are generally issued in connection with regulatory capital requirements where the principal may be written down or converted into equity or the coupon suspended under some circumstances by the issuer or its regulator. As a result, holdings in CoCos may expose the Fund to equity related risks following a conversion to equity or loss of capital associated with principal write-down features. These types of securities may be less liquid than others.

Convertibles Risk: Convertibles include Counterparty Risk related to the debt portion of the Convertible and the equity securities risk related to the common stock into which it can be converted.

Credit/Counterparty Risk: a party with whom the Fund contracts for securities may fail to meet its obligations (e.g. fail to pay principal or interest or to settle FDI) or become bankrupt, which may expose the Fund to a financial loss.

Currency Risk: changes in exchange rates may reduce or increase the value of non-U.S. Dollar denominated assets held by the Fund. There can be no guarantee that currency hedging will be successful in mitigating such effects.

Debt Securities Risk: Debt Securities are affected by changes in interest rates, and credit quality. When interest rates rise, bond prices may fall because investors may be able to obtain a more attractive rate of interest elsewhere. The Fund will be more sensitive to interest rates depending on the average maturity or average duration of its bond investments. Below investment grade securities are more sensitive to economic, regulatory and social developments and are subject to heightened Liquidity Risk.

Emerging Markets Risk: emerging markets are more sensitive to economic and political conditions than developed markets. They present additional market, credit, currency, liquidity, legal, and other risks as compared with developed markets.

FDI and Leverage Risk: FDI may fluctuate in value rapidly and leverage through FDI may cause losses that are greater than the original amount paid for the relevant FDI.

Liquidity Risk: this Fund will invest a portion of its assets in comparatively illiquid assets/securities. During certain times, the Fund’s investments may become difficult to sell which may result in delays when you sell your shares.

Operational Risk: material losses to the Fund may arise as a result of human error, system and/or process failures, and/or inadequate procedures or controls.

Share Class Currency Risk: (Hedged Classes) there can be no guarantee that currency hedging will be successful in mitigating the effects of currency fluctuations on non-USD classes. (Unhedged Classes) performance of unhedged classes may be affected by changes in exchange rates between the class currency and the US Dollar.

For more information on these and other applicable risks see the sections "Investment Risks and Special Considerations" and "Investment Risks Applicable to each Fund" in the prospectus.
