GENERAL INFORMATION

Company profile

Artemis is a leading UK-based fund manager, offering a range of funds which invest in the UK, Europe, the US and around the world.

As a dedicated, active investment house, we specialise in investment management for both retail and institutional investors across Europe.

Independent and owner-managed, Artemis opened for business in 1997. Its aim was, and still is, exemplary investment performance and client service. All Artemis' staff share these two precepts – and the same flair and enthusiasm for fund management.

The firm now manages some  $\pm 25.4$  billion\* across a range of funds, an investment trust and both pooled and segregated institutional portfolios.

Our managers invest in their own and their colleagues' funds. This has been a basic tenet of the Artemis approach since the firm started. It means that interests of our fund managers are directly aligned with those of our investors.

RISK AND REWARD PROFILE

- The fund is in the category shown due to historic volatility (how much and how quickly the value of shares in the fund may have risen and fallen in the past due to movements in markets, currencies and interest rates). It may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the fund.
- The risk category has been calculated using historic data and may not be a reliable indicator of the fund's future risk profile.
- A risk indicator of "1" does not mean that the investment is "risk free".

The risk indicator may not fully take into account the following risks and the following may affect fund performance:

- Market volatility risk: The value of the fund and any income from it can fall or rise because of movements in stockmarkets, currencies and interest rates, each of which can move irrationally and be affected unpredictably by diverse factors, including political and economic events.
- Currency risk: The fund's assets may be priced in currencies other than the fund base currency. Changes in currency exchange rates can therefore affect the fund's value.

There was no change to the risk indicator in the six months ended 30 September 2024.

Please refer to the fund's prospectus for full details of these and other risks which are applicable to this fund.

All new unitholders that invest in the fund must complete a certification form as part of the application form. Existing unitholders may also be contacted by the Registrar should any extra information be needed to correctly determine their tax residence. Failure to provide this information may result in the account being reported to HMRC.

AFML must publish publicly, on an annual basis, a statement setting out a summary of the outcome of the process and whether or not AFML believes the payments out of the scheme property are justified in the context of the overall value delivered to unitholders. Composite reports on Assessment of Value have been published via the website artemisfunds.com.

INVESTMENT REVIEW

Over the six months to 30 September the fund was up 2.1% compared to a 0.3% rise in the FTSE World Europe ex UK index and a 0.3% fall for its peer group the IA Europe-ex UK funds average*. Over the past one, three, five years and since inception, the fund is substantially ahead of the index.

Ultimately, equity returns are driven not by sentiment but by the combination of income and growth. Over the past 23 and a half years (since we launched this fund), European fundamentals<sup>1</sup> have grown by 8.1% per annum while equity markets have returned 6.7% per annum. Returns lagged fundamentals because markets started off very expensive (a prospective price/earnings ratio of 18x) and ended up normally valued (14x). Over time we would expect returns to largely mimic the trend in income plus growth.

For the moment, markets appear to be priced about right, and growth continues to chug along. As such there are no obvious warning signs that European equities are dramatically exposed nor about to embark on a major bull market. That is not to say it cannot happen, but rather to say we should probably focus on the nuts and bolts of running money rather than forecasting major shifts.

Chart 1: Returns lagged fundamentals

Over the same period, our fund has seen its fundamentals grow by about 10% and returned 7.8% (net of fees) per annum. Basically, we have delivered higher returns because we ended up owning companies that grew 2% per annum faster than the market. This 2% gap does not seem huge, but it is a significant amount of 'alpha' over that time.

When we launched the fund in 2000, markets were expensive and investors were crowded into overpriced technology stocks (sounds familiar?). It turned out that owning dull but undervalued companies was less risky and more profitable than owning the market. My sense is that the next few years may well be similar to that of the 2001-2003 period.

The major difference of now vs. then is that while most US stocks are 'expensive' and US growth stocks 'very expensive', markets outside the US are 'normally priced' and value stocks outside the US are 'abnormally cheap'.

It is not clear what markets will do over the next few years, but our portfolio should be capable of hugely outperforming the benchmark. It is on about half the market multiple, companies are buying back their shares, debt levels are low and profit forecasts are going up. This is a good starting point.

While the overall structure of the fund is largely unchanged from a few months ago, the holdings do shift. Over the past few months, we have raised our exposure to the pharmaceutical sector by buying Teva, Novartis and Roche. We have also bought other fairly economically insensitive stocks such as Lottomatica (Italian lottery), ACS (toll roads), Engie (French electric utility) and Essity (consumer paper products). Making way for this we sold holdings in various cyclical and oil stocks such as Heidelberg Materials (cement), Repsol (oil), Stellantis and Renault (autos).

The following two charts illustrate two of the more extreme features of financial markets right now. Chart 2 shows that European equities are very undervalued vs USA – especially since earnings growth is similar. Likewise, Chart 3 shows that within Europe, lowly priced (value) stocks are abnormally cheap and growing.

Chart 2: European versus US equities

Past performance is not a guide to the future.

* Source: Artemis, I accumulation GBP to 30 September 2024. Data prior to 7 March 2008 reflects class R accumulation GBP. All figures show total returns with dividends and/or income reinvested, net of all charges. Performance does not take account of any costs incurred when investors buy or sell the fund. Returns may vary as a result of currency fluctuations if the investor's currency is different to that of the class. This class may have charges or a hedging approach different from those in the IA sector benchmark.

Chart 3: European value stocks

What will be the catalyst for change? Who knows... What I do believe is that investing is about doing sensible things in a diligent fashion. For large periods it might seem pointless, but over the years it makes a big difference. Having exposure to European value stocks at this juncture seems like a relatively low risk/high return strategy.
